Yolanda Gómez Lugo, profesora de Derecho Constitucional de la UC3M, participó en el Congreso internacional sobre Habeas corpus and Constitution in Wartime: a comparative approach, celebrado en la University of California, Berkeley Law School los días 14 y 15 de septiembre de 2018.

En el marco de este Congreso la profesora Gómez Lugo participó en las diferentes sesiones del mismo en las que se abordaron las siguientes cuestiones: the role of civil liberties in wartime, including the role of habeas corpus and more generally an assessment of comparative wartime detention policies; the separation of powers in wartime, giving special attention to the role of the judiciary; the role of allegiance and citizenship in the recognition of legal protections during times of war; the role of history in constitutional interpretation; and a descriptive account of whether the ongoing war on terror has altered the course of constitutional law on many of these issues and normative assessment of the merits of any such change of direction.
