

Maritime archaeology and trade

Josep Padró	The maritime commerce between the eastern and western Mediterranean between 1200 and 200
Andrew Wilson	Maritime trade from 200 BC – 1000 AD
Pascal Arnaud	Ancient sea-routes and trade patterns
Elizabeth Green	Eastern Mediterranean interconnections: from shipwrecks to models of an archaic economy
Sean Kingsley	Please mind the gap: the 'Byzlamic' maritime revolution in Israel
Jaime Alvar, Mirella Romero	Underwater archaeology in Spain and the history of ancient seafaring

Ports, trade and maritime connectivity

Franck Goddio	The harbours of the Alexandrian coast (Heracleion-Thonis and Alexandria)
Rocío Gutiérrez	Russadir-Melilla and the Mediterranean in the Punic period
Josephine Quinn	Coastal connectivity in Hellenistic North Africa
Cheryl Ward	Pirates, vintners and lumberjacks in Rough Cilicia
John Oleson	Technology, innovation and trade: research on the engineering characteristics of Roman maritime concrete
Candace Vaden	Connectivity and ports
Katia Schörle	Constructing port hierarchies: harbours as indicators of global and local interconnectivity
Benjamin Russell	Lapis transmarinus : stone-carrying ships and the maritime distribution of stone in the Roman Empire
Karen Heslin	Approaching the Roman wine trade from the Mediterranean hinterland: a study of dolia shipwrecks
Theodore Papaioannou	A reconstruction of the maritime trade patterns originating from western Asia Minor during Late Antiquity on the basis of ceramic evidence
Robert Hohlfelder	Maritime connectivity in Late Antique Lycia: a tale of two cities, Aperlae and Andriake

Egyptian maritime trade

Francisco Martín Valentín	Egyptian commerce with the eastern Mediterranean in the time of Amen-hotep III and Aj-en-aton
David Fabre	The organisation of maritime trade in ancient Egypt: the example of Heracleion-Thonis
María Antonia García Martínez	Egyptian influence on the Atlantic littoral of the Iberian peninsula in the pre-Roman periods
Julian Whitewright, Lucy Blue	Production for export: the evidence from around Lake Mariotis
Teresa Bedman	Trade relations during the reign of Hatshepsut: the expeditions to Punt